RESTORING ACCESS, SUSTAINING PROGRESS

PMP Surfacing, KBI UK's principal strategic partner for Flexipave, was appointed to resurface the public footpath and bridleway routes crossing the Gateway 36 site in Barnsley, adjacent to M1 Junction 36. The existing paths had become uneven and required remedial work within the development's phase boundary. The challenge was to deliver a durable, low-maintenance and porous surface, installed in the signature Stone Age Bronze finish, that could withstand public access and site traffic without disrupting the wider construction programme.

FLEXIPAVE RESTORES ACCESS

KBI UK installed Flexipave, its flagship porous surfacing system, along the affected footpath and bridleway routes at Gateway 36. Made from a 50/50 mix of recycled rubber and natural stone aggregate, the material was laid in the signature Stone Age Bronze finish to complement the surrounding landscape.

Its flexible, free-draining structure improved the uneven ground, restored safe public access and provided a durable, low-maintenance surface capable of withstanding ongoing use throughout the development.
