TRANSFORMING MURRAYFIELD'S GOLF COURSE PATHS

Murrayfield Golf Club is an icon within the City of Edinburgh, offering unparalleled views over the Scottish capital. In spring 2021, KBI UK was invited to resurface sections of the course, including the pathways linking the clubhouse to the 1st tee. The challenge was to deliver a safe, slip-resistant and durable surface that would blend with the surrounding landscape, withstand heavy year-round use and Scotland's weather, and be installed in phases without disrupting play. Following detailed consultation, KBI UK specified its HD1500 and HD2000 Flexipave systems in Trent Pea.

UNIFYING MURRAYFIELD PATHWAYS

Murrayfield Golf Club's on-course paths had been installed piecemeal over many years, leaving an eclectic mix of tarmac, Toptrek, AstroTurf, rubber blocks and grid-cell matting. Many were in disrepair or difficult to maintain.

Following detailed consultation, KBI UK specified its HD1500 and HD2000 Flexipave systems in a Trent Pea finish. Installed in phases from April 2021, the system replaced the patchwork with a smart, unified and low-maintenance surface that complements the course and its spectacular views.

HARD-WEARING AND LONG-LASTING
Built to withstand constant footfall, buggies and Scotland's changeable weather.

LOW MAINTENANCE
Needs minimal upkeep, freeing the green-keeping team to focus on the course.

SAFE UNDERFOOT.
A firm, slip-resistant surface for golfers, trolleys and buggies, even in wet or frosty conditions.

“Choosing Flexipave has been a great success in terms of both look, performance, and ease of installation. Feedback from the members has been very positive. The greens team are also delighted with the result and are already identifying other areas on the course where the product could be used to improve appearance and reduce maintenance, for example around tee markers to reduce damage to the markers from grass cutting.

KBI were a pleasure to work with. Our single point of contact, Kevin, provided us with both sales and expert technical support, including advice on sub-base preparation. The installation team was professional and completed the work to a high standard in just 4 days, which minimised disruption to the members. The surfacing is the perfect choice for a golf course, providing both the look, performance, longevity and environmental credentials we were looking for.”
